"NO CHILD IN INDIA SHALL BE DEPRIVED OF EDUCATION BECAUSE OF HUNGER"

To
The Secretary of the Higher and Technical Education Department
Rajasthan, JAIPUR

Subject - Request for conducting 8-session workshop on "Jigyasa-Password for Happiness" for students.

Greetings from The Akshaya Patra Foundation.

"Jigyasa" is an initiative by Akshaya Patra Foundation which runs the world's largest mid-day meal program – which is the only Indian NGO, till date, to be chosen as a Harvard Business School case study. Serving approximately 2 million children across 72 locations in 16 states and 2 Union Territories, Akshaya Patra has earned accolades from global leaders like Barack Obama, the Dalai Lama, and Bill Clinton. The Government of India honored its Chairman, Madhu Pandit Dasa, with the prestigious Padma Shri for his distinguished service. Additionally, Akshaya Patra received the Nikkei Asia Prize for supporting education through nourishment and celebrated the milestone of serving 4 billion meals under PM POSHAN at a special event at the UN headquarters in New York.

In addition to providing nourishment, we conduct personality enrichment seminars focused on developing moral and ethical values, enhancing behavioral skills, mastering time management, and setting meaningful goals.

Today's youth face significant challenges, including overcoming distractions, breaking bad habits, cultivating good ones, leading a healthy lifestyle, making wise choices, managing time, developing self-confidence, and focusing on academics. Mentoring is essential to support their overall development and help them navigate these mental, emotional, and physical challenges.

To address these crucial aspects, The Akshaya Patra Foundation is deeply committed to empowering youth with profound clarity and deep analysis of the relevance of ancient value systems in the modern world. Our seminars, based on Ancient Indian wisdom and a spiritual worldview, aim to facilitate a Values-Based Life awareness drive for students and young professionals.

Selflessly serving the mission since last 21 years.

I am writing to seek your kind support in facilitating the "Jigyasa" seminar series, consisting of eight sessions, at your college. These seminars are designed to provide practical management insights drawn from timeless principles of ancient texts, tailored to resonate with students' perspectives. The program aims to equip students with essential skills for better decision-making, cultivating curiosity, building positive relationships, enhancing focus and productivity, and managing stress effectively.

We propose to conduct these sessions from October Onwards, Your assistance in arranging these sessions would be invaluable in fostering the holistic development of your students and ensuring the success of this initiative.

Thank you for considering this request. We look forward to your positive response and to the opportunity of contributing to your students' growth.

Yours in service of Humanity,

Jamuna Jivan Das
